BALKAN VETERANS ENLIST IN GUARD AND LEAVE FOR BORDER

Men Who Have Served On Firing Line In Murderous Balkan Wars Enlist in Arizona Regiment for Service On the Border

About thirty Montenegrins and Austrians and one or two Germans arrived in Phoenix yesterday and left last night for the camp of the First Arizona volunteer infantry at Douglas. The men had all been miners in the Jerome district and answered the call of their foster country.

Without an exception, all have had military experience. All of the men from the Balkan states have taken part in the several Balkan wars. In spite of this, few have had any military drill. In their countries, it is customary to put a rifle in a man's hands, send him to the firing line and tell him to shoot. In the case of the Austrians and Germans, they have had the intensive of military training. They were lined up yesterday afternoon, and one German stepped off with the goose step, all the same as parade on the Wilhelmstrasse.

ability of not being able to bring the regiment up to required strength.

The officer writes that the health of the men is excellent and that in the main they are well contented. The troops have been vaccinated against typhoid. Company C, of Tempe, is being reorganized, but some of the companies, including C, are much below the minimum.

The only complaints coming from the camp are about the dust and the lack of tables. Lieutenant Pomeroy states that the dust is terrible and that the men are compelled to eat "squatted" on the ground, hence he is making a mighty holler for 200 feet of cotton hose with which he says the men of the company can keep the ground sprinkled, and for lumber enough to build some tables for the boys. The ladies' committee on soldier comfort have been notified and they will raise the money Monday. It is needless to say that the funds (about $100), will go forward without delay. It is intended that this amount shall cover a sufficient number of goggles to protect the eyes from the dust. The writer made a request also for cots for the men, but Captain Noble scratched that part out and inserted that the company would receive cots from the government as soon as they were mustered in. It is commendable in the writers of the needs of the boys, as the action shows a desire that the ranks shall be as comfortable as the officers.

All of them speak English and a variety of other languages and dialects. They are all anxious to see some active service, and show their American brothers what good soldiers they can make. Most of them have taken out their first citizenship papers.

Anent a Machine Gun

Fred Wright who has been organizing a machine gun company, in spite of the fact that he has broken a hand, has persuaded his men to leave for the border at once. The plan under which they were brought together, was to drill, get the equipment and be ready for a call to the front at any time. Wright and his men have decided that they will be left out in the cold if they wait much longer. Under the provisions of the new Hay military bill, as soon as the regiment is mustered in, details will be drawn from all of the companies and formed into a machine gun company under the command of officers already with the regiment. In order to become a part of the regiment, the new company will have to leave at once. On the other hand, the men of the company insist that they be allowed to elect their own officers. As the war department specifically states, that the officers for a machine gun company shall be detailed from other companies of the regiment, this almost forces these men who have had regular army experience in such work, to go to Douglas, under officers who have had none. The men of Wright's company fail to see this for dust. There is only one vacancy for a commission in the regiment, a first lieutenant.

Col. Harris suggested to Wright yesterday that the men elect their own non-commissioned officers, and after the arrival at camp, the top sergeant would probably be promoted to first lieutenant. Wright agreed to this, providing Harris would get such an agreement from Col. Tuthill, in command of the regiment. Harris wired Tuthill the particulars last night.

Sort of a Muddle

The officers of the regiment at Douglas are either too busy, or too far from town to get proper wire connections with Col. Harris' office. That officer has wired time after time for news of what is going on at the camp, but no replies come. He has no intimation of what is going on, other than the news that dribbles through with men returning from camp. He has asked time after time for information as to the raising of a motorcycle division, but has failed to get an answer.

According to latest returns, all of the companies are up to peace footing and ready to be mustered in. The slowness of the mustering officer is all that has prevented the entire regiment from having been mustered in a week ago.

Recruiting is progressing, but not as fast as the officers of the guard would like it. The sending of the foreign contingent to the camp last night was one of the best boosts that recruiting has had since the start of the campaign.

UNDERWOOD FINDS DIAMOND CO. O K

A. G. Underwood factory representative for the Diamond Rubber Co. in Southern California and Arizona is spending a few days in Phoenix with Payne & Sauley the local distributors.

Mr. Underwood pays a high tribute to the local firm saying that few distributors in the United States have shown such remarkable growth and developed their territory as rapidly. However this rapid growth is not so surprising when one considers that the new Velvet Diamond Squeezee coupled with the fact that Payne & Sauley give service that makes business hum.

Mr. Underwood reports business on the coast good and all Diamond dealers are kept busy supplying the ever increasing demand.

Makes walking or standing absolutely comfortable, keeps shoes in shape and gives the instep a graceful arch.

The Scholl "Foot-Eazer" is made of two German Silver Springs, leather, rubber covered, and is springy, flexible and self-adjusting to all feet and can be easily slipped into any shoe.

They do not need tanning or pasting but are easily changed from one pair to another.

If you have any foot trouble whatsoever the Scholl "Foot-Eazer" will give you instant relief as well as rest and comfort.
